Mr. Peters was known as a tough disciplinarian; for demanding and receiving the best from his students. His methods of discipline were not well received from his wife (at least when he tried to apply them to her) but he had been very well regarded at Abberville Community College for 14 years. To improve education in Templeton College, Miss Harding worked hard to recruit Mr. Peters. She taught Human Biology, and had herself grown increasingly frustrated with the students attitude. Together they are going to teach and educate the generally spoiled and recalcitrant students that attended their small, private, parochial college.
